Aberdeen (^{Gordon, second} George, Marquess of) and Temair, of Haddo House, near Ellon, Aberdeenshire.

His family muniments contain a number of early charters (beginning c. 1380) and the valuable historical correspondence of Sir George Gordon, first Earl of Aberdeen (1637-1720), Lord Chancellor of Scotland.

They are described by John Stuart, the manuscripts of the Earl of Aberdeen at Haddo House, in Hist. MSS.
Comm., V (1876), app., pp. 608-610 (cf. V, p. xix).
